

EARTH'S FATE

There's never going to be a big landing and a First Contact because they know we will surround the drop ship with tanks and armed soldiers. They've already decided that peace is not on our minds. Sure they've seen Star Trek, but they've also seen War Of The Worlds. So what are they to believe about us? They are already among us, but self-preservation is foremost on their minds. That's why they take human form and live in the desert. But we know who they are and why they are here.

Do you know why General Ripper only drank distilled rainwater and pure grain alcohol? They want us to think that they infected the water supply with traces of mind-control drugs, so we'll buy bottled water, but it's actually in the bottle, which is why I drink tap. A simple diversion to fool simple people.

The Social Engineers numb our minds with Top 40 Radio and dull our senses with must-see-tee-vee. All the while, the Secret Police are watching. And when the time is right, They'll tell us how much better our world can be, if only we'd let them help. Oh sure, they start with flowery talk of peace and harmony to lull us into a false sense of security. But before you know it, they're using us as slave labour in their intergalactic spice mines.

And do you know why? It is the re-currance of a self-fulfilling prophecy. In the future, someone will invent time travel, then everyone will go back in time to invent it first. This will cause such a rupture in the space-time continuum that the universe will collapse and everyone will be Josef Stalin's prison bitch. So mark your foreheads, hide in the forest, and stay away from bottled water.
